LABELS AND OTHER IDENTIFIERS

Supplier Labels

6. (1) Subject to any exemptions from labelling requirements in the Hazardous Products Regulations, an employer shall ensure that a hazardous product or container in which a hazardous product is packaged that is received at a workplace has a supplier label affixed to, printed on or attached to it. Supplier label required

(2) Subject to any exemptions from labelling requirements in the Hazardous Products Regulations, an employer shall not remove, deface, modify or alter a supplier label on a container in which a hazardous product is packaged that was received at a workplace, while any amount of the hazardous product remains in that container. Defacing, etc., label

Replacement of label	(3) Where a label on a hazardous product or container in which a hazardous product is packaged becomes illegible or is removed from the hazardous product or container, the employer shall replace the label with either a supplier label or a workplace label.
Exception	(4) Subsections (2) and (3) do not apply where the label is removed under normal conditions of use from a container with a capacity of 3 ml or less in which a hazardous product is packaged and the label interferes with the normal use of the product.
Update label	(5) An employer shall update a label on a hazardous product or container in which a hazardous product is packaged as soon as reasonably practicable after a supplier provides significant new data in respect of the hazardous product to the employer.
No supplier label, import	(6) Where, pursuant to the exemption provided in section 5.15 of the Hazardous Products Regulations, an employer imports and receives at a workplace a hazardous product or container in which a hazardous product is packaged without a supplier label or with a label that does not comply with the Hazardous Products Regulations, the employer shall <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(a) before the hazardous product is used by a worker at the workplace, affix or attach a workplace label to the hazardous product or container in which the hazardous product is packaged; and</li> <li>(b) before selling or distributing the hazardous product, affix or attach a supplier label to the hazardous product or container in which the hazardous product is packaged.</li> </ul>
No supplier label, bulk shipment or unpackaged	(7) Where, pursuant to the exemption provided in subsection 5.5(2) of the Hazardous Products Regulations, an employer receives at a workplace a bulk shipment or unpackaged hazardous product without a supplier label, the employer shall affix or attach a label having the information required on a supplier label to the hazardous product or the container in which the hazardous product is packaged at the workplace.

Workplace Labels

Required contents, workplace label	7. (1) A workplace label shall <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(a) contain a product identifier that is identical to the product identifier found on the safety data sheet for the hazardous product;</li> <li>(b) contain information for the safe handling of the hazardous product, conveyed in a manner appropriate to the workplace; and</li> <li>(c) disclose that a safety data sheet for the hazardous product, if supplied or produced, is available.</li> </ul>
Update label	(2) An employer shall update a workplace label on a hazardous product or container in which a hazardous product is packaged as soon as reasonably practicable after significant new data in respect of the hazardous product becomes available to the employer.

8. (1) Subject to section 12, where a hazardous product is produced at a workplace, the employer shall ensure that a workplace label is affixed to, printed on or attached to the hazardous product or container in which the hazardous product is packaged.

Workplace label for product produced at workplace

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply

Exceptions

- (a) in respect of a fugitive emission produced at a workplace; or
- (b) when the hazardous product is in a container that is intended to contain the hazardous product for sale or disposition and the container is, or is about to be, appropriately labelled for sale or disposition.

9. (1) Subject to section 12, where a hazardous product at a workplace is in a container other than the container in which it was received from a supplier, the employer shall ensure that a workplace label is affixed to, printed on or attached to the container.

Workplace label for decanted products

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply in respect of a portable container that is filled directly from a container that has a supplier label or workplace label affixed to, printed on or attached to it, if

Exception

- (a) all of the hazardous product in the portable container is required for immediate use; or
- (b) the portable container is under the control of, and used exclusively by, the worker who filled the portable container and the hazardous product in the portable container is clearly identified and used only during the shift in which the portable container is filled.

Pipes, Vessels and Conveyances

10. An employer shall ensure that a hazardous product is identified through colour coding, a label, a placard or another mode of identification when the hazardous product is contained or transferred at a workplace in any of the following:

Identification, pipes or vessels

- (a) a pipe or piping system including valves;
- (b) a process vessel or reaction vessel;
- (c) a tank car, tank truck, ore car, conveyer belt or similar conveyance.

Placards

11. Despite subsections 6(1), (6) and (7), 8(1) and 9(1), an employer may, instead of meeting the labelling requirements in those provisions, post a placard that discloses the information required on a workplace label and is of a size and in a location that the information on the placard is conspicuous and clearly legible to workers, if the hazardous product is

Use of placard instead of label

- (a) not in a container;
- (b) in a container or form intended for export; or
- (c) in a container that is intended to contain the hazardous product for sale or distribution and is to be appropriately labelled for sale or distribution within the normal course of the employer's business, without undue delay.

Laboratories

Laboratory sample
from supplier

12. (1) Where an employer receives at a workplace a laboratory sample that is subject to a labelling exemption under subsection 5(5) or (6) of the Hazardous Products Regulations, the employer shall ensure that a label that meets the requirements of subsection (2), provided by the supplier, is affixed to, printed on or attached to the container in which the laboratory sample is packaged.

Contents of label

- (2) A label under subsection (1) shall
- (a) if known by the supplier, display the chemical name or the generic chemical name of any material or substance in the hazardous product that,
    - (i) individually, is classified pursuant to the Hazardous Products Act (Canada) and the Hazardous Products Regulations in any category or subcategory of a health hazard class and is present above the relevant concentration limit, or
    - (ii) in the case of a mixture, is present at a concentration that results in the mixture being classified pursuant to the Hazardous Products Act (Canada) and the Hazardous Products Regulations in a category or subcategory of any health hazard class; and
  - (b) contain the statement "Hazardous Laboratory Sample. For hazard information or in an emergency, call/ Échantillon pour laboratoire de produit dangereux. Pour obtenir des renseignements sur les dangers ou en cas d'urgence, composez" followed by an emergency telephone number to use to obtain the information that must be provided on the safety data sheet of the hazardous product.

Workplace label not required

- (3) Subsection 8(1) does not apply in respect of a hazardous product produced in a workplace and subsection 9(1) does not apply in respect of a hazardous product that is in a container other than the container in which it was received from a supplier, if
- (a) the hazardous product is
    - (i) a laboratory sample,
    - (ii) intended by the employer solely for use, analysis, testing or evaluation in a laboratory, and
    - (iii) clearly identified, in accordance with subsection (5); and
  - (b) each worker who works with the hazardous product or may be exposed to the hazardous product in the course of the worker's work activities has been educated and trained about the safe use, handling and storage of the hazardous product, in accordance with subsection (5).

Idem

- (4) Subsection 8(1) does not apply in respect of a hazardous product that is produced in a laboratory if
- (a) the hazardous product is

- (i) not removed from the laboratory,
- (ii) intended by the employer solely for evaluation, analysis, or testing for research and development, and
- (iii) clearly identified, in accordance with subsection (5); and
- (b) each worker who works with the hazardous product or may be exposed to the hazardous product in the course of the worker's work activities has been educated and trained about the safe use, handling and storage of the hazardous product, in accordance with subsection (5).

(5) An employer shall ensure that the mode of identification of a hazardous product and the education and training referred to in subsections (3) and (4) enable a worker to identify the hazardous product and obtain information in respect of the hazardous product that would be required on a safety data sheet for the hazardous product or on a label referred to in subsection (1).

Identification, education and
training

SAFETY DATA SHEETS

Supplier Safety Data Sheets

13. (1) An employer who acquires a hazardous product for use, handling or storage at a workplace shall obtain from the supplier of the hazardous product a safety data sheet for the hazardous product that complies with the requirements of the Hazardous Products Regulations.

Hazardous product
supplier

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to an employer in respect of a hazardous product if the supplier of the hazardous product is exempt under the Hazardous Products Regulations from the requirement to provide a safety data sheet for the hazardous product.

Exception

(3) An employer shall update the supplier safety data sheet with any significant new data about the hazardous product as soon as reasonably practicable after the data or information is provided by the supplier or otherwise becomes available to the employer.

Employer to update

(4) An employer may provide at a workplace a safety data sheet in a format different from the format of, or containing hazard information additional to the hazard information provided in, the supplier safety data sheet, if

Employer may provide different format, additional information

- (a) subject to sections 18 and 19, the employer's safety data sheet contains no less content than the supplier safety data sheet; and
- (b) the supplier safety data sheet is available at the workplace and the employer's safety data sheet discloses its availability.

Employer Safety Data Sheet

14. (1) Where an employer produces a hazardous product at a workplace, the employer shall prepare a safety data sheet in respect of

produced at

that hazardous product that discloses the information required under the Hazardous Products Regulations.

Exceptions (2) Subsection (1) does not apply in respect of a fugitive emission or an intermediate product undergoing a reaction within a reaction vessel or process vessel.

Updating safety data sheet (3) An employer shall update the employer's safety data sheet as soon as practicable but not later than 90 days after significant new data about the hazardous product becomes available to the employer.

Toxicological data 15. An employer shall disclose as soon as practicable any source of toxicological data used in preparing a safety data sheet for a hazardous product manufactured at a workplace, at the request of

- (a) an officer;
- (b) a worker or the committee or representative at a workplace; or
- (c) where there is no committee or representative at a workplace, a person representing the workers at the workplace.

Availability of Safety Data Sheets

Readily available 16. (1) An employer shall ensure that a copy of a safety data sheet required under section 13 or 14, or otherwise provided by a supplier or prepared by an employer, in respect of a hazardous product is readily available to

- (a) each worker who works with the hazardous product or may be exposed to the hazardous product in the course of the worker's work activities; and
- (b) the committee or representative at the workplace, as applicable.

Consultation (2) An employer shall consult with the committee or representative at a workplace, as applicable, on the best means to comply with subsection (1).

CONFIDENTIAL BUSINESS INFORMATION

Claim for Exemption

Confidential business information 17. (1) An employer who is required pursuant to these regulations to disclose any of the following information on a safety data sheet or a label may, if the employer considers it to be confidential business information, claim an exemption from the requirement to disclose that information:

- (a) in the case of a material or substance that is a hazardous product
  - (i) the chemical name of the material or substance,
  - (ii) the CAS registry number, or any other unique identifier, of the material or substance, and
  - (iii) the chemical name of any impurity, stabilizing solvent or stabilizing additive that is present in the material or substance, that is classified in a category or subcategory of a health hazard class under the Hazardous Products Act (Canada) and that contributes to the classification of the material or substance in the health hazard class under that Act;

(b) in the case of an ingredient that is in a mixture that is a hazardous product,

(i) the chemical name of the ingredient,

(ii) the CAS registry number, or any other unique identifier, of the ingredient, and

(iii) the concentration or concentration range of the ingredient;

(c) in the case of a material, substance or mixture that is a hazardous product, the name of any toxicological study that identifies the material or substance or any ingredient in the mixture;

(d) the product identifier of a hazardous product;

(e) information about a hazardous product, other than the product identifier, that constitutes a means of identification; and

(f) information that could be used to identify a supplier of a hazardous product.

(2) Pursuant to section 47 of the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada), the Minister of Health (Canada) may provide for a claim referred to under subsection (1) to be filed, reviewed and determined in accordance with the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada).

Powers of Minister of Health (Canada)

(3) An employer who files a claim in accordance with this section shall abide by any decision or order issued in accordance with the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada) in relation to the claim.

Employer to abide by federal Act

(4) In sections 18 and 19, “claim” means a claim filed in accordance with this section.

Meaning of “claim”

Interim Exemption

18. (1) Despite any other section of these regulations, an employer who files a claim may exclude information that is the subject of the claim from a safety data sheet or label from the date the claim is filed until

Interim exclusion

(a) the end of the time period specified in an order that was issued by a screening officer under subsection 16(1) or 17(1) of the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada); or

(b) in any other case, 30 days have expired after the final disposition of the proceedings in relation to the claim.

(2) An employer who excludes information from a safety data sheet or label pursuant to subsection (1) shall include the following on the safety data sheet or label, as the case may be:

Disclosure of claim information

(a) the date that the claim was filed;

(b) the registry number assigned to the claim in accordance with the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada).

Modified safety
data sheet

(3) Where an employer files a claim for an exemption from a requirement to disclose information referred to in clause 17(1)(a) or subclause 17(1)(b)(i) or (ii) about a hazardous product produced at the workplace, the employer shall disclose the following on the safety data sheet for that hazardous product in place of the information elements listed in clauses 3(1)(a), (b), (c) and (d) or (2)(a), (b) and (c) of Schedule 1 to the Hazardous Products Regulations:

- (a) in the case of a hazardous product that is a material or substance, the generic chemical name of the material or substance; or
- (b) in the case of a hazardous product that is a mixture, the generic chemical name of each material or substance in the mixture that, individually, is classified in any category or subcategory of a health hazard class under the Hazardous Products Act (Canada) and is present above the applicable concentration limit or is present at a concentration that results in the mixture being classified in a category or subcategory of any health hazard class under that Act.

(4) Where an employer files a claim for an exemption from a requirement to disclose information referred to in subclause 17(1)(b)(iii) about a hazardous product produced at the workplace, the employer may exclude the information element listed in clause 3(2)(d) of Schedule I to the Hazardous Products Regulations from the safety data sheet for that hazardous product.

Idem

(5) Where an employer files a claim for an exemption from a requirement to disclose information referred to in clause 17(1)(d) about a hazardous product produced at the workplace, the employer shall disclose a code name or code number for the hazardous product in place of the product identifier on the safety data sheet for that hazardous product.

Exemption

Valid claim

19. (1) Despite any other section of these regulations, where a claim or portion of a claim is found to be valid, the employer may exclude the information that has been found to be confidential business information from a safety data sheet or a label, as applicable, during the three years following the final disposition of the claim.

Disclosure of decision

(2) An employer who excludes information from a safety data sheet or a label pursuant to subsection (1) shall include the following on the safety data sheet or the label, as the case may be:

- (a) a statement that a claim for exemption from a requirement to disclose information the employer considers to be confidential business information on a safety data sheet or a label has been found to be valid and the information is exempt from disclosure;
- (b) the date of the final disposition of the claim; and
- (c) the registry number assigned to the claim under the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada).

Confidentiality of Information

- 20. (1) An officer or any other official of the government who obtains information pursuant to clause 46(2)(e) of the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada) shall keep the information confidential and shall not disclose the information to any person except for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of the Occupational Health and Safety Act and its regulations. Disclosure of information by officer
- (2) Any person to whom information is disclosed pursuant to subsection (1) shall keep the information confidential and shall not disclose the information to another person. Disclosure of information by third party
- 21. (1) An employer shall disclose any information in the employer's possession about a hazardous product that is, or was, at a workplace, including information that is exempt from disclosure, to a health professional who requests information on the hazardous product for the purpose of making a medical diagnosis or treating a person in an emergency. Disclosure of information in medical emergencies
- (2) A health professional who, pursuant to subsection (1), obtains information that is exempt from disclosure shall not disclose the information to another person except for the purpose of making a medical diagnosis or treating a person in an emergency, provided the employer has informed the health professional that the information is to be kept confidential and not disclosed to another person. Disclosure of exempt information by health professional
- 22. No person other than an employer shall use or disclose information that is exempt from disclosure except as provided by sections 20 and 21. Use, etc., of confidential information

TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

- 23. (1) In this section, Definitions
- (a) "Controlled Products Regulations" means the Controlled Products Regulations (SOR/88-66) made under the Hazardous Products Act (Canada); Controlled Products Regulations
- (b) "employer transition period" means the period beginning on the day these regulations come into force and ending on November 30, 2018; employer transition period
- (c) "former regulations" means the Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System Regulations (EC577/88) as they read immediately before these regulations came into force; former regulations
- (d) "supplier transition period" means the period beginning on the day these regulations come into force and ending on August 31, 2018. supplier transition period
- (2) For the purposes of this section, References to terms in other legislation

- (a) a reference to a controlled product in the Controlled Products Regulations is understood to mean a hazardous product; and
- (b) a reference to the Hazardous Products Act (Canada) in the former regulations is understood to mean the Hazardous Products Act (Canada) as it read immediately before February 11, 2015.

Hazardous products received at
workplace

(3) During the supplier transition period, in respect of a hazardous product that an employer receives at a workplace, the requirements of these regulations in respect of a supplier label and a safety data sheet provided by a supplier do not apply, if the employer meets the requirements in respect of a supplier label and a supplier material safety data sheet, as applicable, set out in the former regulations.

Hazardous product
workplace

(4) During the employer transition period, in respect of a hazardous product that is present at a workplace, the requirements of these regulations in respect of a supplier label, a workplace label and a safety data sheet do not apply, if the employer meets the requirements in respect of a supplier label or workplace label and a material safety data sheet, as applicable, set out in the former regulations.

Education and
training

(5) Where an employer meets the requirements set out in the former regulations in accordance with subsection (3) or (4), the employer shall meet the education and training requirements in section 5 of the former regulations.

Revocation

24. The Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System Regulations (EC577/88) are revoked.

Commencement

25. These regulations come into force on July 29, 2017.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

SECTION 1 defines terms used throughout these regulations.

SECTION 2 provides that these regulations apply in respect of hazardous products used, handled, stored or produced at a workplace, subject to exceptions for certain types of hazardous products.

SECTION 3 requires an employer to ensure that a hazardous product is not used, handled, stored or produced at a workplace unless all of the requirements in these regulations respecting labels, identifiers, safety data sheets and worker education and training are met. The section permits an employer to store a hazardous product at a workplace while actively seeking information required by the regulations about the hazardous product.

SECTION 4 requires an employer to ensure that a worker who works with a hazardous product or may be exposed to a hazardous product in the course of the worker's work activities is informed about all available hazard information about that hazardous product.

SECTION 5 requires an employer to ensure that a worker who works with a hazardous product or may be exposed to a hazardous product in the course of the worker's work activities is educated respecting the information required on labels and safety data sheets and the purpose and significance of that information. It also requires the employer to ensure those workers are trained in various procedures.

The education and training are to be developed and implemented in consultation with the committee or representative at a workplace and shall be reviewed at least annually. An employer shall ensure that workers are able to apply what they have learned to protect health and safety at the workplace and that workers are periodically evaluated on what they have learned.

SECTION 6 requires an employer to ensure that a hazardous product or container in which a hazardous product is packaged received at a workplace has a supplier label, subject to any applicable exemptions from labelling requirements under the Hazardous Products Regulations.

It prohibits an employer from removing, defacing, modifying or altering a supplier label and requires an employer to replace a label that becomes illegible or is removed, subject to applicable exemptions and an exception for labels on containers with a capacity of 3 ml or less, where the label interferes with the normal use of the hazardous product. It requires an employer to update a label with significant new data when a supplier provides it to the employer.

It requires an employer to label hazardous products imported and received at a workplace without a supplier label or with a supplier label that doesn't comply with the Hazardous Products Regulations. It sets out the labelling requirements where the hazardous product is to be used at the workplace and where it is to be sold or distributed.

It also requires an employer to label bulk shipments or unpackaged hazardous products received at a workplace without a supplier label.

SECTION 7 sets out the required contents of a workplace label and requires an employer to update a workplace label with significant new data when it becomes available to the employer.

SECTION 8 requires an employer to ensure that a workplace label is affixed to, printed on or attached to a hazardous product produced at a workplace or the container in which a hazardous product produced at a workplace is packaged. It provides that this requirement does not apply in respect of a fugitive emission produced at a workplace or a container in which a hazardous product is packaged intended for sale or disposition that is, or is about to be, appropriately labelled for sale or disposition.

SECTION 9 requires an employer to apply a workplace label to a hazardous product that has been decanted at a workplace after receipt from a supplier, subject to an exception for portable containers.

SECTION 10 requires an employer to ensure that a hazardous product contained or transferred at a workplace in a pipe or piping system with valves, a process vessel or reaction vessel or other listed conveyances is identified through colour coding, a label, a placard or another mode of identification.

SECTION 11 permits an employer to post a placard at the location where a hazardous product is stored at a workplace instead of labelling the hazardous product if the hazardous product is not in a container, is in a container or form intended for export or is in a container intended for sale or distribution and is to be appropriately labelled within the normal course of the employer's business, without undue delay.

The placard must display the information required on a workplace label and be of a size that the information is conspicuous and clearly legible to workers.

SECTION 12 requires an employer to ensure that a laboratory sample subject to a labelling exemption under subsection 5(5) or (6) of the Hazardous Products Regulations that is received by an employer is labelled with a label provided by the supplier that meets the requirements set out in the section.

It provides that a workplace label is not required for a laboratory sample produced or decanted at a workplace if it is intended by the employer solely for use, analysis, testing or evaluation in a laboratory, clearly identified and workers have been provided with education and training about it so as to enable a worker to identify the hazardous product and obtain specified information about it.

The section also provides that a workplace label is not required for a hazardous product produced in a laboratory if it is not removed from the laboratory, it is intended by the employer solely for evaluation, analysis or testing for research and development, it is clearly identified and workers have been provided with education and training about it so as to enable a worker to identify the hazardous product and obtain specified information about it.

SECTION 13 requires an employer to obtain a safety data sheet for a hazardous product acquired for use, handling or storage at a workplace from the supplier of the hazardous product. This requirement does not apply if the supplier is exempt under the Hazardous Products Regulations from the requirement to supply a safety data sheet.

The employer is required to update the safety data sheet obtained from the supplier with any significant new data or new hazard information about the hazardous product as soon as reasonably practicable after the data or information is provided by the supplier or otherwise becomes available to the employer.

The section permits the employer to provide a safety data sheet in a different format from the supplier's or that includes additional information, if the employer's safety data sheet contains no less information than the supplier's, subject to exemptions, and the supplier's safety data sheet is available at the workplace and the employer's safety data sheet discloses this.

SECTION 14 requires an employer to prepare a safety data sheet that meets the requirements of the Hazardous Products Regulations for a hazardous product produced at a workplace. This requirement does not apply in respect of a fugitive emission or an intermediate product undergoing a reaction within a reaction vessel or process vessel. The section also requires an employer to update the safety data sheet, as soon as practicable, but not later than 90 days after significant new data about the hazardous product becomes available to the employer.

SECTION 15 requires an employer to disclose to specified persons, on request, toxicological data used in preparing a safety data sheet for a hazardous product manufactured at a workplace.

SECTION 16 requires an employer to ensure that a copy of a safety data sheet required under section 13 or 14, or otherwise provided by a supplier or prepared by an employer, is readily available to workers and the committee or representative at a workplace. It requires an employer to consult with the committee or representative at a workplace on the best means to ensure safety data sheets are readily available.

SECTION 17 provides for an employer to claim an exemption from a requirement to disclose specified information that the employer considers to be confidential business information on a label or safety data sheet. It enables the Minister of Health (Canada) to provide for such a claim to be filed, reviewed and determined in accordance with the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada). It requires an employer who files a claim to abide by any decision or order issued in accordance with the federal Act in relation to the claim.

SECTION 18 provides that an employer who files a claim may exclude that information from a label or safety data sheet for a specified period of time pending disposition of the claim. It requires the inclusion of certain claim-related information on a label or safety data sheet from which confidential business information is excluded pursuant to the section. It also sets out information that must be included on a safety data sheet when particular confidential business information is excluded from it pursuant to the section.

SECTION 19 provides that, where a claim or portion of a claim is found to be valid, an employer may exclude information that has been found to be confidential business information from a label or safety data sheet during the three years following the final disposition of the claim. It requires the inclusion of certain claim-related information on a label or safety data sheet from which confidential business information is excluded pursuant to the section.

SECTION 20 requires an officer or any other official of the government who obtains information pursuant to clause 46(2)(e) of the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act (Canada) to keep the information confidential except for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of the Occupational Health and Safety Act and its regulations.

SECTION 21 requires an employer to disclose any information in the employer's possession about a hazardous product to a health professional who requests the information for the purpose of making a medical diagnosis or treating a person in an emergency.

A health professional to whom an employer discloses information that is otherwise exempt from disclosure is prohibited from disclosing that information to another person except for the purpose of making a medical diagnosis or treating a person in an emergency, provided that the health professional has been informed that the information is to be kept confidential.

SECTION 22 prohibits the use or disclosure of information that is exempt from disclosure under the regulations by any person other than an employer, except as provided in sections 20 and 21.

SECTION 23 defines terms used in this transitional section. It provides that, during the supplier transition period, in respect of a supplier label and a safety data sheet provided by a supplier for a hazardous product received at a workplace, the requirements under these regulations do not apply if the employer meets the applicable requirements under the former regulations.

The section also provides that, during the employer transition period, in respect of a supplier label or workplace label or a safety data sheet for a hazardous product present at a workplace, the requirements under these regulations do not apply if the employer meets the applicable requirements under the former regulations.

The section also provides for the education and training requirements that an employer is to meet where the employer is meeting the requirements of the former regulations in relation to labels and material safety data sheets.

SECTION 24 revokes the former regulations.

SECTION 25 provides for the commencement of these regulations.
